

CHAPTER XII. The Sacraments of the New Covenant as Signs of Union with the Body of Christ

- | | |
|---|-----|
| 1. Union with the body of Christ as the spiritual mystery figured in the sacraments | 143 |
| 2. The necessity of this union | 145 |
| 3. The reality of this union as sealed in the sacraments | 149 |
| 4. The spiritual nature of this union effected by the power of the Holy Spirit | 152 |
| 5. This union the basis of the Church | 154 |
| 6. This union the pledge of eternal redemption | 155 |

CHAPTER XIII. The Mystery of Sacramental Union

- | | |
|---|-----|
| 1. The sacraments effectual through the mystery of sacramental union | 159 |
| 2. This union so close and intimate that the thing signified can be identified with the sign | 161 |
| 3. This union so transcendent and freely personal that the thing signified must be regarded as distinct from the sign | 163 |
| 4. No natural analogy for this union | 165 |
| 5. The mystery of sacramental union paralleled by the mystery of the incarnation | 167 |
| 6. The sacraments effectual only through the working of the Holy Spirit | 169 |
| 7. The grace of the sacraments withheld from human arrogance | 171 |
| 8. The effect of the sacraments independent of the presiding minister | 173 |

CHAPTER XIV. Baptism as Ingrafting into Christ

- | | |
|---|-----|
| 1. Baptism as a sign of introduction into a new sphere of common life in the body of Christ | 175 |
| 2. Baptism as a sign of the mortification of the flesh and the forgiveness of sins | 177 |
| 3. Baptism as a sign of renewal and adoption | 179 |
| 4. Baptism as a sign of our separation from the world to God | 181 |

CHAPTER XV. Baptism and Faith

- | | |
|---|-----|
| 1. Baptism inefficacious without faith | 184 |
| 2. Where there is no faith present, the sign of Baptism can retain its latent efficacy till it becomes profitable | 185 |
